Will President Barack Obama's Stimulus Plan work?

The American Recovery and Reinvestment Plan would create jobs for more than three to four million. The nation lost 2.6 million jobs in 2008, the largest loss since 1945. The vast majority of economists believe that this will be successful provided the plan is large enough. For the trucking industry the construction of roads, bridges and other transportation infrastructure will benefit.

The trucking industry is better poised from focusing on the infrastructure boosting intermodal lanes and the network. The network would include shipping will be the most efficient than other groups to benefit funding. Also, focusing on nation's transportation rail, air, trucking and short-sea freight hauling.
