Cost of Operations/Cost Per Mile

Fixed and Variable Costs

Happy 4th of July

Truckers are having a hard time staying afloat and alive with high fuel costs. If you don't run smart, you can run yourself right out of business (independent or big trucking companies). YOU MUST CONTROL THE COST OF DOING BUSINESS! Costs for operating a truck fall under two general categories: fixed and variable costs.

Fixed Costs: Truck Payment, Cargo Insurance, Health Insurance, Licenses, Permits, Accounting Services. Variable Costs: Fuel, Maintenance, Repairs, Lodging, Meals, Tolls, Telephone, Taxes, Fines.

Cost of Operations includes many expenses that truckers encounter in their businesses. Operations expenses "Total Vehicle Costs" and "Driver Income".

Cost Per Mile

Truck miles are very important, because miles a truck operates increases, the cost per mile will decrease.
